

ALFIE ARCURI

BIOGRAPHY

Distinctively emotive, soul- inspired pop singer/songwriter Alfie Arcuri hit the mainstream after being crowned the winner of The Voice in 2016. Born to Italian-Australian parents, Alfie won the hearts of a nation with his charming personality and unique voice, leaving a career in architecture after inking a worldwide deal with Universal Music. Since winning the show, Alfie has headlined some of the biggest national television appearances including The State of Origin, Melbourne Cup's Exclusive "Bird Cage" and Channel Nine's 'Carols by Candlelight' just to name a few - as well as his own national tour.

Alfie has spent the last year collaborating with some of the world's most sought after-songwriters both locally and in the US. His first single 'If They Only Knew' released in July 2017 has already in excess of 3 million streams across all platforms and second self-penned track 'Love is Love' headlined as the anthem of the Marriage Equality campaign in 2017, solidifying his smooth breezy sound and Alfie as an icon in LGBTI community for his openness.

After embarking on a national tour with Samantha Jade in 2018, 'Eurovision :: Australia Decides' saw Alfie perform live to an unprecedented SBS televised audience with his current single 'To Myself' produced by hit-maker Audius Mtawarira (Delta Goodrem, Jessica Mauboy, etc.). The track was selected out of 700+ entries for the competition and in less than a month, has streamed more than 100,000 times.

As a songwriter, Alfie has penned tracks for Hoseah Partsch and Sheldon Riley's Winners single for 2018's The Voice Australia. His upcoming single 'Same' was recently a finalist amongst more than 4,000 entries in the 2018 Vanda and Young Songwriting Competition and is set to hit the airwaves this April.
